WORK & LIFE REIMAGINED

Sixty2 is located in Berlin-Mitte — within direct view of the Rotes Rathaus city hall. It ranks among the top addresses in the capital city thanks to a visionary transformation of existing office space and a new apartment building by renowned architects Tchoban Voss.

Here, work and life converge in a vibrant, international community hub — seamlessly connected to Berlin's urban landscape and beyond.

For the next generation of urban professionals, Sixty2 offers more than just a home — it's a lifestyle rooted in creativity, connection, and cultural diversity.

AMIDST BERLIN- MITTE

Klosterstrasse has always played a central role – it is one of the oldest streets in Berlin-Mitte. The name originates from the “Grey Monastery,” a former Franciscan monastery of social and political significance. The street is also named after the surrounding Klosterviertel, which is home to numerous historic landmarks. It is framed by prominent buildings such as the Old Town Hall and the Dutch Embassy.

A short walk away is the Rolandufer – a green promenade along the Spree that connects Klosterstraße to Mühlendamm via a pedestrian path. Alexanderplatz and the charming Nikolaiviertel are within a few minutes’ walk.

The Klosterstrasse subway station directly in front of the building connects to Alexanderplatz – one of Berlin’s main transport hubs – as well as to many other culturally significant locations, including Eberswalder Strasse, Potsdamer Platz, Zoologischer Garten, and the Olympic Stadium.

COMMUNITY LIVING

Sixty2 is redefining what it means to live in the middle of Berlin. A key element for all residents and tenants is the “people@Sixty2” community, which offers a wide range of activities. The events are organised by the community itself and bring the neighbourhood together – activities include, for example, events that bring the neighbourhood together, as well as joint activities and workshops where the community can exchange knowledge, skills and experiences.

This space will soon host a café by KaffeeKirsche Berlin, known for its exceptional coffee culture — a perfect spot for residents and visitors alike to meet, unwind, or work. The operators of an innovative fitness concept will open their first studio in Berlin

Sixty2 brings together innovative architecture, urban vibrancy, and a spirit of connection — creating a place to live, stay, and belong.
